

The UK helps other countries fight climate change with money for clean energy projects to cut carbon emissions and adapt to changes.

A new plan called the Capital Market Mechanism was introduced at COP29. It could bring in $75 billion for clean energy projects using past loans.