

King Charles visited Canada. Some felt it showed independence from the US. Many Indigenous people were upset as it didn't help fix past wrongs.

Canada's past hurt First Nations. They tried to change them, causing health and money problems. Leaders say Canada should help more.

Indigenous leaders want Canada to keep promises about sharing land and money. They want action on Indigenous rights, not just words.

In 2015, a report said Canada harmed Indigenous children by sending them to bad schools. People want Canada to fix this and not just celebrate old ways.

Some think Canada should let Indigenous people control their land. This could show change and make Canada better for everyone.