

News from the United Nations

In December 2018, the UN talked about good, cheap health care for all, rights for Indigenous Peoples, and better cities for families.

The UN helps young people and families. They want families to support young people and make sure people with disabilities feel included.

The UN wants to end poverty, ensure everyone has a good life, and focus on human rights and fair treatment for all.