

MPs Vote on Assisted Dying Bill

MPs voted for the Assisted Dying Bill. It helps very sick people in England and Wales end their lives. The vote was close, with 23 in favour.

The House of Lords will check the Bill next. Some MPs wanted more protection for disabled people, but it wasn't accepted. Many groups are worried.

The Royal College of Psychiatrists said the Bill needs more thinking to keep people safe. They are concerned about people with learning disabilities..
