

Floods in South Africa's Eastern Cape from rain and snow have killed 49 people, including 4 children and a bus driver.

Rescue teams search for more children. Three were found safe, holding trees. Many lost homes and are in temporary shelters.

Bad weather has cut electricity to many homes. President Ramaphosa asks everyone to be careful and help each other. Some roads are closed for safety.