

Helping Workers with Illness

The Deputy Prime Minister promises more help for workers with terminal illness. The Civil Service signed the Dying to Work Charter to support them.

The TUC and Jacci Woodcock MBE made a promise to help workers with a terminal illness. Now, 2 million workers are protected.

The government wants employers to treat workers with a terminal illness kindly, giving them dignity and choice during tough times.