

UK companies are hiring less. Job vacancies dropped by 63,000 from March to May, and the unemployment rate rose to 4.6%.

National Insurance costs and minimum wage went up. Jobs were 736,000 by May. Wages grew slower, and experts say the job market is weaker.