

The G7 meeting in Canada was to discuss Russia and trade. Now, it's focusing on a new war between Israel and Iran.

Leaders are worried about war spreading. They want to stop it but don't agree on how. Some want peace, others have different plans.

Leaders will talk about the war instead of safer energy. They will try to agree on actions without arguing too much.

Donald Trump is in the meeting. People wonder if he will work well with others or cause issues. He often liked making deals alone before.

Leaders want Trump to make trade easier. They need to work with each other to solve big problems like China. Working together is better.
