

Checking Frozen Chicken

The government made an online talk to help check if chicken or turkey was frozen before by looking for something called HADH in the meat.

Freezing meat can release a part called HADH. You can check this by pressing the meat and looking at the liquid with a special tool.

The Government Chemist and others explain how to tell if meat was frozen before.