

Help for Disabled People at Work

Access to Work helps disabled people with jobs by giving money for tools and transport. But now, it's having big problems.

The Access to Work Collective says there are long waits and less money. People worry about losing jobs. They started #AccessToNowhere to stop cuts.

Rose Ayling-Ellis and Adam Pearson say cuts are unfair and make life harder. They want the government to stop cutting money for the plan.