

Joe Salisbury and Neal Skupski reached the French Open men's doubles final. They beat Christian Harrison and Evan King.

The British pair lost the first set but won the next two. They will play Marcel Granollers and Horacio Zeballos in the final.

Salisbury and Skupski aim to win their first Grand Slam. They've played finals in Qatar and Barcelona. The final is on Saturday at 15:30 BST.