

The government may limit children's social media use to 2 hours and set a 10:00 pm curfew. This is due to apps being very addictive.

Some people are upset because safety laws are slow. Ian Russell wants stronger laws to protect children online after losing his daughter.

Minister Peter Kyle wants to make sure kids are safe online. He's thinking about what the government should do to keep children safe on the internet.