

The MHRA is opening a new digital hub in Leeds to improve digital health in the UK. Leeds was chosen for its expertise and smart people.

The hub helps MHRA, NHS, and universities work together to make better health rules and spread jobs across the UK.

A new hub in Leeds will create 30 jobs in digital and tech to ensure health tech is safe and effective.

Leeds is good for tech because it has many tech workers, students, and big tech companies.

The hub will help Leeds grow and create jobs. It will help the UK lead in digital health and give everyone a chance to work in important jobs.
