

New Space Projects in the UK

Five UK projects will use satellite data to help public services. They will monitor safety, track wildlife, find methane leaks, and aid farmers.

Projects use satellites to track building safety, help farmers, and check greenhouse gases. This helps with safety, farming, and reducing emissions.

The UK wants to lead in space tech for services and fund ideas to fight climate change, helping future industries grow.