

A rare forester moth was found in Essex after 50 years. Fiona Hutchings saw it on a survey and caught it. It was confirmed as a forester moth.

The moth was last seen in 1974. It likes damp grass and woods. Fiona and Rob were happy and celebrated after finding and photographing it.