

NHS 10-Year Plan for Better Care

The UK wants to help people with learning disabilities live longer by moving care to the community and focusing on staying healthy.

The plan aims to improve early health checks for children, helping people, including those with learning disabilities, get care closer to home.

Groups want more details and the Government to ensure people with learning disabilities and autism get help. Working with communities will help.