

The UK's inflation rate for April was 3.4%, not 3.5%, due to wrong road tax data.

A mistake in Vehicle Excise Duty data affected CPI and RPI by 0.1%. ONS won't change April's figure but will improve data checks.

Concerns about ONS data quality affect decisions on the UK economy. The former head resigned due to health reasons, and better data checks are needed.