

Stonehenge Protestors Found Not Guilty

Three people from Just Stop Oil were found not guilty after spraying Stonehenge with orange powder in a peaceful protest about fossil fuels.

A protest at Stonehenge was cleaned up for £620. The court said it didn't cause lasting harm and was about important issues.

The jury agreed with the protestors. Their lawyer said the charges were wrong. Protesting is important in our society.