

The UK has a new group to make the country safer and create jobs. It includes defence companies, trade unions, and investors.

The group will make new tools and help the UK get ready for war. This is part of the Government's Plan for Change to make the UK strong.

The UK will spend more on defence, build factories, create jobs, and help UK companies grow and sell more abroad.

The new council replaces the old Defence Suppliers Forum. It will include more ideas for UK defence. The first meeting was during London Tech Week.
