

COVID-19 Vaccines for Autumn 2025

The UK will give COVID-19 vaccines in autumn 2025 to people who might get very sick. This advice is from vaccine experts.

People 75+, in care homes, or with weak immune systems can get the vaccine. Health and social care workers won't get it this time.

The experts say the vaccine does not stop the virus from spreading much now. So, they focus on helping people who need it the most.