

A new group helps disabled people in government. They ensure disabled candidates have equal chances and work to make things fairer.

The group will use their experiences to plan. They'll work with a minister to ensure disabled voices are heard and learn from past work to help them.

The plan helps with travel and special needs costs to support disabled people at work. Experienced people are involved to make changes.