

Ten white storks are back in North Devon. It's the first time in 600 years. This is part of a plan to bring back lost animals.

Storks raised on a farm were released by Keep It Wild. They'll fly to Spain in August, hoping to return to Devon if there's a group to join.