

Cookies help the BBC website work. Some cookies are always on. Others you can turn on or off. This helps you have a good online time.

Fabio Wardley is a boxer. He will fight Justis Huni at Ipswich Town Football Club. Wardley is also going to be a dad soon.

Wardley started boxing later in life after a different job. He learned fast and is now close to a world-title fight.

Wardley chooses strong opponents to show his skill. He beat Frazer Clarke and will now fight Huni instead of Jarrell Miller.

Wardley is watching other big fights. He might fight Daniel Dubois in the future. Becoming a dad and winning more fights are his big goals now.