

Hospital Ward to Close Soon

A hospital ward for people with learning disabilities will close soon. Families must quickly find new care. Experts say closing fast is not good.

Fraser's family wants him home after four years in hospital. The hospital has staff problems and says the ward is not safe. A good plan is needed.

The Scottish government plans to help people with learning disabilities move from hospitals to better places safely.