

The UK is helping 7.5 million workers learn about AI with help from Amazon, Google, and Microsoft. This will boost jobs and the economy.

The plan is to teach workers AI skills for better jobs and pay. The government and tech firms will meet often to check the plan's progress.

AI is changing work. The UK wants everyone to learn about it to stay a tech leader and ensure everyone benefits.

Companies will use their skills for the project. Microsoft aims to help 1 million workers. Others will train people to feel confident with AI.

The government got money for AI projects, making new jobs. The aim is to grow and help more people learn future skills.

Amazon and BT want to teach people about AI. They think it will make the UK stronger. Working together helps the country grow.
