

Ashley and Joe met online and didn't care about height. The app may let users filter by height, but some think this might stop good matches.

The height filter is only for top app subscribers and not in the UK yet. Some think it helps short men, others say it limits chances.

Some dating apps let you filter by education or star signs. Some people like this, but others think it means missing good matches.

Matt likes meeting people face-to-face. Beth thinks filters can help some people feel more confident when dating.

Ashley worries filters might stop finding special matches. She's happy with Joe, who she thinks is amazing.