

The UK wants to make debt collection kinder and easier for people who owe money.

They will ask people about new rules for bailiff firms to stop too many visits, keep fees low, and be watched by an independent group.

Bailiffs will wait longer before visiting. This gives more time for debt help. Fees for bailiffs will rise a bit to help them work well.

The Government will check how council tax is collected to ensure fairness and allow people to have a say in changes, helping families and councils.