

Man in Court for Mimicking Laugh

Robbie Gemmell from Dunbar is in court. He is accused of being mean to two women and copying a woman's laugh who has a learning disability.

Robbie, 27, is accused of raising his fist and spitting near women on May 3 at West Port. He went to court and said he is not guilty.

The court has set a trial date for October. This means they will look at the case more carefully then.