

Chancellor's House Renting Mistake

Rachel Reeves rented her home without the right licence. She moved to Downing Street after winning the election and didn't know she needed a licence.

Rachel Reeves made a mistake with a licence. The letting agency didn't tell her. She has now applied for the licence to fix it.

Kemi Badenoch wants to check if the law was broken. The Prime Minister should act if it was. The home was rented for £3,200 a month.
