

The UK helps farmers in Zambia with a project to cut carbon, create jobs, and support eco-tourism. This started in 2018.

The project helps farmers with new methods, builds roads and campsites, protects wildlife, creates jobs, and cuts emissions by 30 million tonnes.