

Mum Graduates from University

A mum from South Africa went to study at a university to show her son with a learning disability the importance of learning.

Nelisiwe studied Sociology and worked hard to balance school and caring for her son. She got help from the University's Disability and Wellbeing.

Ask for help and manage your time. With support, parents and students can reach their dreams. Nelisiwe is excited for her future.