

A 14-year-old boy from London was sent to Ghana by his parents. He felt alone and asked lawyers to help him return. The court will review his case.

The boy wants to go back to London. His parents sent him to Ghana. A new judge will decide if the parents were wrong.

The court will decide soon. The boy feels confused and unhappy in Ghana. His lawyer says it's important to listen to him.