

Green Party Talks About Wealth Tax

Zack Polanski of the Green Party wants a wealth tax on the very rich to help with inequality. Critics worry it might make rich people leave the UK.

Polanski thinks tax is about fairness. He wants capital gains tax to be like income tax. He believes the richest should pay more for public services.

Polanski is the new Green Party leader. The party has more members now. He thinks people want real change and are tired of old politics.
