

Gang Members Get Longer Jail Time

Two men from a South London gang had their jail time made longer after the Solicitor General asked the Court of Appeal to review their case.

A gang named WoolyO robbed people and posted online. Police found videos and messages of them using guns and celebrating violence.

One gang member will serve 5 years, and the other 5 years 9 months. This shows the crimes were serious and helps keep people safe.