

Assisted Dying Bill Vote

People worry the Assisted Dying Bill might harm sick or disabled people. Some think it helps those suffering, others fear it devalues certain lives.

The bill passed closely and goes to the House of Lords. Some worry it may make it harder for people with learning disabilities to get care.

The End-of-Life Care Coalition wants to help people with advice and support about dying, so they can feel safe and cared for.