

A US group bought Rangers, a Scottish football club. They will spend £20m. Andrew Cavenagh is the new boss, with help from Paraag Marathe.

The group wants to make Rangers strong in football, manage money well, and ensure the club stays successful for a long time.

New people will join the club's board. Patrick Stewart will stay as the main manager.

The new owners want a new manager. They are thinking about Davide Ancelotti and Russell Martin. They want to make fans happy and proud.

Fans are excited but careful. They hope the new owners help Rangers win more and be the best in Scottish football again.
