

Wars have rules to keep people safe. These rules are called the Geneva Conventions. Both sides must follow them to protect civilians.

Many children have died in Gaza. News is hard to get because journalists can't go in.

Israel shows damage from Hamas but not its actions in Gaza. Journalists can't see what's happening in Gaza.

The Red Cross says war rules are being broken. These rules keep people safe. Both sides must follow them.

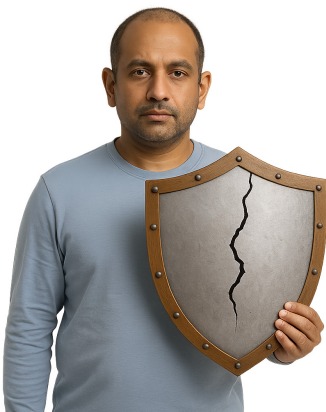

Many people have died in Gaza. It's hard to know the exact number because Israel controls the area. Numbers help us understand what's happening.

During war, people should not be starved. Blocking food to Gaza is against the rules and is a war crime.

The ICRC says things in Gaza are very bad. People are suffering. Everyone needs basic rights. The world should care about Gaza.

Israel says they are defending themselves. They must protect civilians even during war. Everyone has the same rights.

Israel has legal problems. They are accused of war crimes. Some leaders cannot travel. The world is watching.

Some worry Israel isn't following rules. This could cause more problems and suffering for everyone.

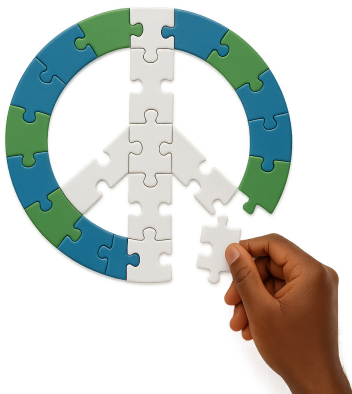

Some people think Israel is right. Others think they are breaking rules. It's important to know the facts and follow the law.

The conflict is old. Both sides hurt. Remember the past, but follow rules now. Rules keep everyone safe.

Countries have different views.
Some support Israel, others don't.
War rules should be followed.
Everyone should protect people.

The conflict will continue. We must follow rules and keep people safe.
The world needs to work together
to find a solution.

Children suffer in wars. They need extra care. Rules say to keep them safe. We must help them have a safe future.

Peace is the goal. Follow rules, listen, and work together for a better future.
