

Apology to man with learning disability

A man with a learning disability didn't get help. Rules were too strict. Three groups said sorry for the upset.

Mr Y needed a care coordinator. Local rules said only health workers could do this, but national rules allow social workers too.

Mr Y should get the same help as others. The council is working to fix this and follow national rules to help people better.