

Keep care plans for special needs kids.

Keep care plans, set new school rules, give more money to special schools, and train teachers more. Parents value these plans for their rights.

Tracy worries about losing rights. She wants legal protection for her son's education. The government says they are making support easier to get.