

Kemi Badenoch, a Conservative leader, wants to check if the UK should leave some international laws, like the European Convention on Human Rights.

The ECHR gives rights in 46 countries. It affects UK laws. Some think leaving it might help the UK.

Some Conservatives want to leave the ECHR to control immigration. They're worried about losing support after poor election results.

Badenoch will soon give a speech about big changes. The party hopes this will keep supporters happy and win more votes.