

Meeting 999 Crews in Cornwall

People with learning disabilities went to Blue Light Day in Cornwall to meet police, fire service, and paramedics to learn about their jobs.

Meet emergency workers, sit in trucks, and see uniforms. It helps build trust and shows it's okay to ask for help.

Sgt Flo Linscott says it's good to be friends with the community. The day helps people with learning disabilities know police want to help.