

New Leader for Science Department

Emran Mian is now the Permanent Secretary for Science, Innovation and Technology. He takes over from Sarah Munby. Emran knows a lot about technology.

Emran will help the UK grow with new tech and AI. He wants the UK to be good for science. The government wants better jobs and services.

Peter and Sir Chris praised Emran's skills. They thanked Sarah. Emran is excited to work with scientists and businesses to improve the UK.