

The UK Army uses robots to find threats. One person can control three robots, keeping soldiers safe and improving their work.

The Army used drones and vehicles with cameras to see threats better. The Government is spending more money to make the Army stronger.

The Government is making new technology with companies to help the Army, create jobs, and work better with other countries using swarming drones.