

Helping People Feel Safe in Hospital

A project helps adults with learning disabilities feel less scared about hospitals by letting them visit before needing care. It won an award.

People with learning disabilities find hospitals scary. Visiting first helps them feel better. Staff learn how to help them.

Visit ambulance staff and see hospital tools. This helps people feel safe and know who to ask for help. More hospitals want to join.