

Why Rules Matter for Support Homes

Tim Keilty talks about paperwork for support providers before Christmas. It checks their work and can be hard and stressful.

Tim wants to ask better questions about people's lives. He thinks working together can save money and build trust.

Tim wants to improve checking by focusing on what matters to people and families. He invites others to join and share ideas to help everyone.