

Better Care for Everyone

New rules will help health staff care better for people with learning disabilities or autism. It's named after Oliver McGowan.

New training helps staff care for people with learning disabilities or autism. It makes care safer and more personal. It's part of a new law.

The Oliver McGowan Code of Practice sets training rules to improve care for people with learning disabilities and autism, starting in Autumn 2025.