

Big Rail Deal Saves Steel Jobs

The UK will buy rail tracks from British Steel for £500 million over 5 years, helping keep jobs safe at the Scunthorpe plant.

The government saved British Steel's blast furnaces. Now, they'll make over 337,000 tonnes of rail tracks, helping factories grow and create jobs.

The deal will help make UK trains better. The government wants the economy to grow and everyone to feel the benefits.
