

Rachel Reeves wants to fix schools and hospitals to help people and make the economy strong for everyone to succeed.

The government is changing plans and fixing pensions to help the economy. This has helped lower interest rates, saving families money.

The UK is growing and making new trade deals. The government wants everyone to feel the benefits in their daily lives.

The government will spend more on health, safety, and the economy using tax money. They want to help public services and grow the economy now.

The government is spending more money on the military and security to keep the UK safe and create jobs.

The government is spending more to make borders safe and improve the asylum system. They want to stop using hotels for asylum seekers to save money.

The government is building new nuclear power plants to make UK energy and create jobs.

They are helping British steel. The government saved British Steel and is investing in projects using British materials.

The government helps businesses grow by supporting new ideas, money, and skills. They invest in training and apprenticeships for young people.

The government will build more affordable homes and improve transport to connect towns and cities.

The government is spending money to make places safer and better. They are helping local projects and creating jobs.

The government is spending more on police and justice to make places safer. They are hiring more police officers and improving the justice system.

The government helps with school uniforms, bus fares, energy bills, and making homes warmer.

The government is putting money into schools to help children learn well and have a good start in life.

The NHS is important. The government is spending more money to make it better, so people can get the care they need.