

New Nature Reserve in Surrey

A new nature reserve called Wealden Heaths is in Surrey. It has rare animals like Sand Lizards and Natterjack Toads. Many groups helped create it.

This reserve is big, three times Richmond Park. It has heathland and woodland, which are important as many such places have gone.

The reserve is part of the King's Series plan to protect nature and let people enjoy it. The area is famous for the Devil's Punch Bowl legend.