

Young Engineers Win Big Award

A team from Sellafield Ltd won an award for a project to teach young people about engineering jobs, helping with the UK's engineer shortage.

The team made new activities for work experience. This helps young people enjoy engineering. They were happy to get an award and thanked everyone.

A leader at Sellafield praised the team. The programme helps young people start careers. Sellafield listens to feedback to improve.